SUNDAY - - - - - March - 1888.

What Folks Are Saying.

That the past week has been a most extraordinary one atmospherically considered.

That the striking "Q" engineers are still confident of ultimate success.

That the President's "charming wife," although, of course, she, like unto her countrywoman, bearing the name of "Lady Churchill," does not enter the political arena, carries no small influence in political affairs in favor of her husband.

That the country at large is determined that the next Democratic president shall be Grover Cleveland, the champion of revenue reform.

That yesterday was as bright a day as one could wish to see, and real estate was correspondingly brilliant.

That the moderate and constitutional expression of demands of the "Irish people," as stated by Gladstone, should be acceded to; as also ought Utah's.

That the death of United Germany's Emperor is not unlikely to create revolutionary changes in European policy.

That in the death of Thomas J. Potter, the Union Pacific Railway Company loses the most vigorous official its management has ever been graced with.

That the rendition of Blow for Blow as a beneficiary performance to aid Elder H. H. Thomas, should be given general patronage.

That the Congressional memorial of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the repeal of internal revenue taxes on alcoholic liquors can hardly be regarded as in the interests of temperance reform.

That the Territorial Legislature has accomplished much good work during the past session, and that many wise statutes have been passed, the correct administration of which must benefit the people generally.

That the Ogden Chamber of Commerce is working faithfully in the interests of the city.

That the united and financial support of the business and professional men, and the community generally, is required to bring enterprising capitalists here who are looking for safe outlets for their surplus wealth.

That the Chamber of Commerce could advantageously follow the worthy example of their sister Chamber at the capital in the movement for organizing excursions from large eastern centres, thus bringing the claims to recognition of Ogden directly before the right kind of men.

That the fire at the Springfield (Mass.) Evening Union office, on Wednesday last, serves to show the defective arrangements which are unfortunately too often characteristic of large newspaper offices.

That the reigning house of Germany is in a sea of bereavement caused by the death of the Emperor William and the fatal disease, mowing at the vitals of Frederick the III.

That in the death of the Emperor William, the German nation has lost a gallant soldier, a wise statesman, a pure patriot and a loving ruler.

That the long looked-for Union depot structure may now be looked upon as a certain thing of the near future.

That it would seem to be popular, although hardly consistent, in a government of the people and by the people to invest in one man the power to veto the expressed wishes of the duly elected representatives of the people.

That the Territorial cry is, not that the will of the people is sovereign, but that the will of the Governor is the supreme power in the land.

That a live woolen mill in active and constant operation will be one of the features of the Junction City before many weeks will have passed into the great gone-by.

That the ladies of the city are fretting, because they have a wetting, each time they are getting over the street; while the male gender shout, when they are walking about, "Oh, my poor feet."

Teachers' Association.

On Friday evening, the teachers of the city held their usual weekly meeting in the Central School House.

After the reports had been presented, the set programme was carried out. It consisted of a glee by the teachers, a reading "My Wedding Gown," by Miss Dora Hatch, a treatise on "What Should Teachers Read?" by Miss Marian Tressler, and an address by Miss Nellie Dana on the qualifications of the primary teacher. As the conclusion, Professor A. B. Lewis, by request, ventilated some of his ideas on the subject. He said the most skillful teacher should be in the primary department, who should be thoroughly acquainted with the laws of health, of the mind, have the child's mind in its most plastic condition, to train and mould, and in their development, because the impressions made by that teacher last forever. The imparting of facts alone is not teaching; true teaching leads to mental growth. The planted corn grows of itself. The farmer but surrounds it with favorable conditions. The same relation should exist between the child's mind and the teacher.

The principal wished to call attention to the lack of interest in the meetings of the association by the teachers, and requested each one to answer the question: "Is it not as much your duty to attend these meetings as it is to be in your schoolrooms during the week?"

The excuse of one should be just as valid as that of another. It is the duty of all teachers to be present at the meetings unless unavoidably detained. Those who are placed upon the programme are not justified in absenting themselves without being excused. They should cultivate an interest in their association meetings from a sense of duty, and those who feel that the meetings are not of sufficient interest should make it a special object to attend and exercise their abilities in making them what they think they ought to be. Remember, teachers, that "where your treasure is, there will your heart be also;" and if your treasure is not in the interest of the schools, let it be made known in a proper way instead of absenting yourselves.

After another glee had been rendered, and Reese Dee had read a humorous selection, "Spring House Cleaning," the critic's report was given. Next Friday, the 18th, there will be a lecture on "Schools and Legislation for Schools," by Superintendent E. H. Anderson.

The Concert

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," is a proverb as old as the hills, but, venerable though it may be, it will never lose its force.

The entertainment opened with an operatic potpourri by the orchestra, played in a manner which at once showed that the "pudding" was worth masticating. This was followed by a duet "Dreaming," by Miss Florence Purdy and Mr. W. Hinchcliffe, and we found that sweets were going to be added to sweets. The concert room nuisance here showed itself—an encore was demanded.

At this point we arrived at what may be called the piece de resistance of the evening, namely the violin solo "Souvenir de Ballini," by Mr. I. M. Navoni, the pianoforte accompaniment being by a young musician of Ogden, named Harry G. Smurthwaite. How it was manipulated only those present can fairly judge.

To say that Mr. J. S. Adams sang a charming ballad "Some Day," in good style was evidenced by the audience not only demanding for a encore, but the gentleman complied and sang a baritone sea-song.

The vocal gem of the evening, however, was undoubtedly a cavatina, "Toi que j'aime," with orchestral accompaniment, delivered by Miss Florence Purdy. The lady possesses a fine, flexible voice, of somewhat extensive compass, and her C in alt came ringing out and floated, as it were, round the house in a manner that leads us to think that she will ere long be heard of in musical circles outside of our city.

Other pieces followed, but we think we have said sufficient to show that the pudding was full of plums and richness.

The house was a good one, and the proceedings finished with a select dance.

Simply Elegant.

By invitation, we paid a visit yesterday to the dental parlors of Dr. R. R. Waggoner, which the gentleman has just fitted up, in the Chamber of Commerce building, having removed his location from the Woodmansee building. We knew the doctor had a penchant for elegant surroundings, but we hardly prepared to see the "simple elegance" which was evidenced in every feature of his new quarters.

The new quarters, from the gilt wall paper to the magnificent dental chair, upon which Mr. Waggoner's efficient operations are successfully performed, "Improvement and progression have one eternal round," and Dr. Waggoner seems bent upon keeping up with the times. Mr. Waggoner is a regularly admitted dental surgeon with full diploma, and work entrusted to him will always be done in the very best style.

A Request.

The following has been handed in to us, with a request for publication:

"Dear Prof. Navoni: We are glad to learn that the Home Circle Orchestra is about to give another concert, and ask that you will favor us with a repetition of 'Rhode's Airs with variations.' We would also like to hear 'Sounds from Home,' by Ogden's recognized violin soloist, Mr. Ole Berkhof."

TWELVE LOVERS OF MUSIC.
OGDEN, March 10, 1888.

Police Court.

Sam. Jenkins was arrested yesterday by Sheriff Benlap, at West Weber, for disturbing the peace. He was brought before Judge Dee, who postponed the hearing of the little matter until Tuesday next.

Johnny, the Indian arrested on Friday for being drunk on the public highway, was ordered to take a two days' rest in the city jail.

St. Patrick's Day.

On St. Patrick's eve, Friday next, March 10th, a grand calico masquerade ball will be given under the auspices of the W. R. C., assisted by the G. A. R., at the Union Opera House. The HERALD acknowledges an invitation to be present. Ford's full orchestral band will furnish the music.

That Sugar Trust.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The investigation into the Sugar Trust was continued by the House committee this morning. H. O. Havemeyer, of New York, was on the stand. Nothing decidedly new was developed in regard to the trust, but the investigation assumed somewhat the nature of a tariff hearing when the witness stated that the sugar industry could not exist without protection, because of the higher prices paid the American laborer. The sugar refiners were discriminated against under the present tariff, the ad valorem duty being greater on raw than on refined sugar. Mills' bill made things even worse. Witnesses said he was discriminated against in the matter of the drawback, when the Treasury Department, on November 1, 1883, fixed the rate at 200. The drawback on sugar should be fixed by Congress and not by a Secretary of the Treasury, who might be an able man and might not.

The Big Strike.

KANSAS CITY, March 10.—Last night the engineers and firemen of the Atchafalpa, Topeka & Santa Fe road, at Topeka, Kansas, through their general grievance committee, notified the manager at that point that if they persisted in violating their pledges of non-intercourse with the Burlington road, in refusing to handle freight consigned to or from the latter company, that at 12 o'clock a. m. on Sunday they would leave their engines in a body.

SWITCHMEN SWITCHING OFF.

The members of the Switchmen's Union, sixty in number, employed in the yards of the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs Railroad and the Hannibal & St. Joe, both of which are part of the Burlington system, are on strike. This morning they expressed a determination not to work with the engineers now employed by the Burlington. Their reasons are that the danger is so great because of the incompetency of the new men that they fear they are liable to be crippled or killed at any moment.

INFANTILE SKIN DISEASES.

Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six months old, was attacked with a violent and malignant skin disease. All ordinary remedies failing, we called our family physician, who attempted to cure it; but it spread with almost incredible rapidity, until the lower portion of the little fellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, bloated, and malodorous. We had no rest at night, no peace by day. Finally, we were advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The effect was simply marvelous. In three or four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little fellow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion your valuable remedies saved his life, and to-day he is a strong, healthy child, perfectly well, no repetition of the disease having ever occurred.
